DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Moussa. Moussa discloses in the Figures and specification a three dimensional model comprising a membranous model replicating a body cavity and a translucent base material surrounding the cavity, where the translucent material is elastic and in adhesive contact with the model. With respect to claim 13, Moussa discloses on page 5 of the specification that the model is formed of a silicone rubber and the base material is a silicone gel. With respect to claim 14, the refractive indices of the materials in Moussa are substantially equal.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moussa in view of Shun. Moussa discloses all of the claimed features with the exception of the casing being translucent as recited. However, this feature is well known, as disclosed for example in column 4, lines 42-47 of Shun. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the relevant art to modify the teachings of Moussa by providing a translucent casing for the purpose of allowing a user to view the model within the casing. With respect to claim 8, Moussa discloses an embodiment where the model comprises a blood vessel.

Claims 15 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moussa. Moussa discloses all of the features of claim 15 with the exception of the model being translucent as recited. However, this is considered to be an obvious variation on the prior art, as various translucent silicone materials are well known. With respect to claim 17, Moussa discloses an embodiment where the model comprises a blood vessel.

Claims 16 and 18-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moussa in view of Szaroletta. Moussa discloses all of the claimed features with the exception of the means and method for detecting a photoelastic effect as recited. However, three dimensional models with such means for detecting a photoelastic effect are known, as disclosed for example by Szaroletta. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the relevant art to modify the teachings of Moussa by providing a means and method for detecting a photoelastic effect for the purpose of allowing a user to view stresses created within the three dimensional model.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Lalka, Prom, LeRoy, Jerath, Graham, Younker, Duncan, Smith and Tuason disclose various anatomical models.
